I want to thank the members of the Annual Conference Committee for their many efforts and hard work assembling this program, which is outstanding in its scope, content, and timeliness.

What's so special about this meeting and ADAA? There is no other conference that you will attend that involves clinicians and researchers, students, postdoctoral fellows, and clinical trainees, as well as individuals with anxiety disorders. This is a truly multidisciplinary audience, diverse in our backgrounds yet united in our commitment to improve the lives of those with anxiety and related disorders by advancing education and research.

We are honored to have so many experts and scholars at this conference. The breadth of content covered in this program is unsurpassed. In particular, I want to thank Edna Foa for being our keynote speaker. Not only has Edna made significant contributions to the field, she has been a strong supporter of ADAA since its early days.

I have been involved with ADAA for more than 20 years, and I can honestly say that it is unique. This is a friendly and dynamic network. Its energy is contagious. I look forward to greeting you at the Welcome Reception on Thursday.

I hope you will take advantage of the many opportunities to meet new colleagues and network with attendees who have similar interests. We encourage all of you first-time attendees to grab a cup of coffee and some breakfast and meet others on Friday morning in Carondelet before the Jerilyn Ross Lecture.

I hope you will join me and become involved with ADAA.

Welcome!

2011 CAREER DEVELOPMENT TRAVEL AWARDS

ADAA cultivates the next generation of experts in anxiety disorders by supporting basic and clinical research into the causes, treatments, and cures for anxiety disorders. These awards encourage early career professionals to pursue research careers by supporting the presentation of their research at the ADAA Annual Conference and the annual meeting of either the Association for Behavioral and Cognitive Therapies or the American College of Neuropsychopharmacology. These awards have been given since 1998.

2011 DONALD F. KLEIN EARLY CAREER INVESTIGATOR AWARD

This award is given for the best original research paper on neurobiology, psychopharmacology, psychosocial treatments, or experimental psychopathology of anxiety and anxiety-related disorders. Donald F. Klein, MD, for whom this award is named, revolutionized psychiatric thinking through his discovery in the early 1960s that imipramine was effective in blocking panic attacks and developing a schema for diagnosing anxiety disorders that is routinely used to this day. ADAA is excited to name three recipients.

First Place

Jacek Debiec, MD, PhD

8:00 am – 6:00 pm | Registration

1:30 pm – 3:00 pm | Balcony K

103C Master Clinician: Anxiety and Insomnia

Michael Perlis, PhD, University of Pennsylvania

Dr. Perlis will discuss cognitive-behavioral therapy for insomnia (CBT-I), which has been shown as effective in patients with comorbid with medical and psychiatric disorders, including PTSD. Even in the absence of research on insomnia comorbid with GAD or phobia disorders, it likely conceptually that CBT-I will be effective for these forms of insomnia and will require some modification for application. Participants will be encouraged to discuss questions or difficulties implementing CBT-I with individuals suffering anxiety disorders in general and with GAD and phobias in specific.

1:30 pm – 3:00 pm | Balcony I

104C Master Clinician: Mindfulness and Acceptance-Based Behavioral Therapy for Anxiety Disorders

Lizabeth Roemer, PhD, University of Massachusetts, Boston

Dr. Roemer will introduce an approach to treating anxiety disorders that integrates well-established behavioral and cognitive interventions with material drawn from a range of evidence-based interventions emphasizing acceptance and mindfulness.

2:00 – 3:30 pm | Balcony L

171C Clinical Presentation: Next Step Treatments for Anxiety Disorders

Moderator: Michael Van Ameringen, MD, McMaster University Medical Center

Michael Liebowitz, MD, Medical Research Network, and John R. Walker, PhD, University of Manitoba

Although many first-line pharmacological and psychological treatments are available, up to 50 percent of patients with anxiety disorders achieve only a partial response or none at all. This session will focus on what to do when such medication or CBT fails, dealing with the comorbid patient, what treatments to combine—and when, and the sequencing of treatments. This highly interactive session is aimed at prescribing and nonprescribing clinicians.

3:00 pm – 4:30 pm | Regent

Membership Standing Committee Meeting

3:30 pm – 5:00 pm | Balcony I

102C Master Clinician: Mind Over Moods — Treating Coexisting Depression and Anxiety

Dennis Greenberger, PhD, Anxiety and Depression Center, Newport Beach, California

Understanding and proficiency with cognitive-behavior therapy (CBT) treatment principles can lead to more effective clinical outcomes. Dr. Greenberger will provide information and tools to make CBT work more effectively with patients with co-occurring depressive and anxiety disorders.

3:30 pm – 5:00 pm | Balcony K

101C Master Clinician: Treating Children With Tics, Trichotillomania, and Tourette Syndrome

Martin Franklin, PhD, University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine

Dr. Franklin will describe a cognitive-behavioral conceptualization of trichotillomania (TTM) and Tourette Syndrome (TS) applicable to children and adolescents and present treatment strategies that flow directly from this empirically informed conceptualization, including state-of-the-art assessment methods.

3:30 pm – 5:00 pm | Balcony J

004 Jerilyn Ross Lecture: The Relaxation Revolution

Herbert Benson, MD, Director Emeritus of the Benson-Henry Institute (BHI), and Mind/Body Medical Institute Associate Professor of Medicine, Harvard Medical School

A pioneer in mind/body medicine, Dr. Benson is one of the first Western physicians to bring spirituality and healing into medicine. In a career of more than 35 years, he has defined the relaxation response and continues to lead teaching and research into its efficacy in counteracting the harmful effects of stress.

Dr. Benson's research extends from the laboratory to the clinic to Asian field expeditions. His work serves as a bridge between medicine and religion, East and West, mind and body, and belief and science.

9:15 am – 10:45 am | Studio 8
100C Master Clinician: Treating PTSD and Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI)

Richard Bryant, PhD, University of New South Wales

Dr. Bryant will provide an overview of recent developments at the intersection of traumatic brain injury (TBI) and PTSD: how the mechanisms underpinning both can influence—and even exacerbate each other; differential diagnosis issues; adaptations of assessment procedures; and a review of treatment, particularly how therapy needs to be adapted for TBI survivors.

9:15 am – 10:15 am | Studio 2
177C Clinical Presentation: Adapting CBT for Children and Adolescents With Anxiety Disorders on the Autistic Spectrum

Brian J. Schmaus, PhD, Anxiety & Agoraphobia Treatment Center, and Erica Wagner-Heimann, PsyD, Anxiety & Agoraphobia Treatment Center

Elana Newman, PhD, Dart Center for Journalism and Trauma, Co-Director, Tulsa Institute of Trauma and Neglect, University of Tulsa, and John Pope, Reporter, Times-Picayune, New Orleans

Media interest in the psychological functioning of individuals is growing by leaps and bounds. From reality television showing actual therapy sessions to clinicians and researchers providing expert opinions on anxiety and stress-related disorders, mental health has engaged the media. There are many underlying questions as to ethics, from privacy concerns to bias. Dr. Elana Newman, a trauma and media expert, and award winning Times-Picayune reporter John Pope will discuss their experiences and roles in portraying mental health in the media. This discussion will review how mental health experts interact with the media, what makes a good expert in the eyes of the media, potential ethical pitfalls in media interactions, and how to prevent being misquoted.

371R Research Symposium: Insider Tips: Publication Strategies Panel

Moderators: Jasper Smits, PhD, Southern Methodist University, and Mark Powers, PhD, Southern Methodist University

This panel will discuss strategies for successful publication in peer-reviewed journals, including a behind-the-scenes look at journal administration and how to successfully navigate a publication-related career. The panelists—all widely published authors who have been involved in journal activities at the highest level—will address these and other questions: What do most published journal articles share in common? What is the most common mistake journal editors see? Should an author always make the changes suggested by reviewers? What constitutes authorship? What does author order mean for a career (first, last, middle)? Should an author focus on quality or quantity? How does one get involved in the review process?

Update From the ADAA Board of Directors

ADAA reached a crossroads last year with the untimely passing of Jerilyn Ross, our president and one of the founders. We had to weigh carefully what it means to carry on her legacy in an organization with a rich history of advocacy, education, and science.

Our greatest strength is bringing together clinicians, basic and clinical researchers, and consumers. It is also one of our biggest challenges. This broad representation across disciplines is unique among mental health organizations.

CHANGES IN STRUCTURE

We heard from members during the strategic planning process in 2009 and we incorporated these ideas, values, and suggestions into the plan. To broaden engagement and involvement of members, the Board of Directors realigned the governance, leadership, and volunteer structure. ADAA is strengthened by our members: professionals who provide clinical services and conduct research across a wide range of disciplines; students enrolled full-time in social work, psychology, and medical training programs; and our newest member category for trainees, postdoctoral fellows, and residents. Individuals affected by anxiety and stress-related disorders and their loved ones connect with ADAA for resources, education, and referrals and support the association through donations.

The revision of ADAA's governance structure will be visible in many ways.

The Board of Directors established a leadership-succession plan in which volunteer officers serve two-year terms. The officer positions are President, President-Elect, Immediate Past President, Secretary, and Treasurer. Open positions will be filled through a call to members with an eye toward maintaining a balance across disciplines. This multidisciplinary approach is so central to ADAA's vision that it was incorporated into the bylaws.

NEW COMMITTEES

To maintain a growing and dynamic organization, the Board of Directors created new opportunities for members to become involved with ADAA. In addition to the Annual Conference Committee, new standing committees are open to all members to join. Look for more information about these committees and their objectives at the Membership table near Registration and on the ADAA website.

- Awards (Reid Wilson, PhD, and Risa Weisberg PhD, co-chairs)
- Membership (Karen Cassiday, PhD, chair)
- Professional Education (Naomi Simon, MD, chair)
- Public Education (Sally Winston, PsyD, chair)
- Fundraising (David Hoberman, chair)

- Children (Lynn Siqueland, PhD, and Aureen Wagner, PhD)

RECOGNITION AND AWARDS

Promoting careers and professional development has been a central focus of ADAA for more than 12 years.

ADAA awards support junior faculty, postdoctoral fellows, and students. The Career Development Travel Award and the recently established Donald F. Klein Early Investigator Award offer mentoring and networking opportunities. Through our unique partnerships with ABCT and ACNP, Travel Award winners may also present their research at one of these meetings. While it takes the efforts of many members to review applications, Jim Abelson, MD, PhD, and Lori Zoellner, PhD, have spearheaded this effort in recent years.

SPECIAL INTEREST GROUPS

Providing a forum to nurture networking and meeting others with similar interests continues to be a critical role for ADAA. To further these connections, ADAA has created special interest groups (SIGs) that allow members to form smaller communities within ADAA.

Marking the launch of SIGs at this conference, these groups will meet on Saturday during lunch:

- Genetics (Jordan Smoller, MD)
- Multicultural Advances (Luana Marques, PhD)
- Pharmacotherapy (Beth Salcedo, MD)
- PTSD (chair to be announced)

Our Mission: To promote the prevention, treatment, and cure of anxiety and stress-related disorders through advocacy, education, training, and research.

Three new awards recognize the accomplishments of our members and acknowledge their commitments to ADAA, as well as to our vision to increase awareness and education about anxiety disorders. The Board is thrilled to present these awards along with the research awards at the Opening Session:

- Jerilyn Ross Clinician Advocate Award recognizes a member who demonstrates the same spirit as Jerilyn did to advocate for awareness, education, and treatment.
- ADAA Members of Distinction Award recognizes mid-career clinicians or researchers who advance our mission through significant service and commitment to the organization and its membership.
- Clinician Advocate Award acknowledges members of ADAA who fulfill the public education and outreach mission of the association.

SUPPORTING SCIENCE, ADVANCING TREATMENT

Advancing science and clinical care is central to ADAA and the vision of its founders. In supporting science and partnering to enhance translation, ADAA leads the way for earlier diagnosis, better treatment, prevention, and cure. Depression and Anxiety, ADAA's official journal, offers an outstanding platform to present and disseminate research. The annual conference and webinars offer access to high-quality continuing education, training, and dissemination.

Advocating for a cure for these disorders is our ultimate goal, which is attainable through the support of science and research.

PUBLIC EDUCATION

Educating the public about anxiety and related disorders remains a core activity for ADAA. From brochures to web content, videos to podcasts, ADAA offers expert information on anxiety disorders and comorbid conditions, including depression, eating disorders, headaches, sleep disorders, IBS, fibromyalgia, and many more. Initiatives such as National Stress Out Week and our partnership with Active Minds, Suicide Prevention Awareness Network, and OCD Chicago on college campuses are examples of our successful efforts.

Finding ways to talk about anxiety disorders, stress, and related illnesses is key to ending stigma. We know that early diagnosis and intervention are critical to preventing the onset of other disorders. We also know that anxiety often co-occurs with other conditions and has an impact on their outcomes. ADAA will continue to make sure the public knows and understands this, too. It will take a concerted effort to help the more than 40 million adults and children recognize that anxiety disorders are real, serious, and very treatable.

YOUR ADAA

ADAA needs your involvement to accomplish these goals. You are essential to our success. We want to hear your ideas. We encourage you to become involved. We invite you to engage with leaders. Together, we can expand awareness about anxiety disorders, inform and inspire the next generation of researchers and clinicians, and challenge the leadership to think critically, strategically, and creatively about how to disseminate treatment, translate research, and improve access to care.

We have balanced recent economic and leadership shifts. We have adapted and will continue to build a stronger organization to serve the current and future generations. We thrive because you see ADAA as relevant and valuable. A vibrant organization, ADAA will build bridges and improve the lives of people suffering from anxiety and stress-related disorders. We want to thank you for your support and for believing in the vision that an organization can be diverse and incorporate patient education, advocacy, clinician training, and research.

AWARD WINNERS

1. Feasibility and Acceptability of Cognitive Bias Modification (CBM) for Social Phobia

Courtney Beard, PhD¹; Risa B. Weisberg, PhD¹; Nader Amir, PhD²; Casey Schofield, PhD¹; Hannah Boettcher¹; Ashley Perry¹;

¹Alpert Medical School of Brown University,

²San Diego State University/University of California, San Diego

2. Anxiety in Preschool Children: The Role of Information-Processing Biases

Helen F. Dodd, PhD, Jennifer L. Hudson, PhD; Macquarie University, Australia

3. An Experimental Investigation of the Effects of Acute Sleep Deprivation on Panic-Relevant Biological Challenge Responding

Kimberly A. Babson, MA; University of Washington

4. RTN4 Is Associated With Intermediate Phenotypes for Anxiety Disorders From Infancy to Adolescence

Lauren M. McGrath, PhD; Massachusetts General Hospital/Harvard Medical School

5. Treatment of Comorbid Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) and Anxiety in Children

Matthew Jarrett, PhD; University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

6. Anxiety Sensitivity: An Examination of a Brief Randomized-Control Intervention Trial

Meghan Keough, MS; Florida State University, Tallahassee

7. Using a Circuit-Based Approach With Translatable Human Biomarkers to Assess Clinical Relevance of Mouse Models of Obsessive-Compulsive Disorder

Susanne E. Ahmari, MD, PhD; Columbia Presbyterian/New York State Psychiatric Institute

8. Resting State Functional Connectivity Between Cingulo-opercular and Default Mode Networks in Obsessive-Compulsive Disorder

Emily R. Stern, PhD; University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

9. Anxiety Sensitivity and Physical Distress Tolerance in Relation to Posttraumatic Stress Symptom Severity in a Trauma-Exposed Community Sample

Erin Marshall-Berenz, BA¹, Anka Vujanovic, PhD², Scott Coffey, PhD³, Michael Zvolensky, PhD¹;

¹University of Vermont, ²National Center for PTSD – Behavioral Science Division, VA Boston Health Care System and Boston University School of Medicine, ³University of Mississippi Medical Center

10. Social Anxiety Is Associated With Heightened Attentional Bias to Somatic Stimuli and Greater Subjective Anxiety, but Not Cardiovascular Reactivity

K. Lira Yoon, PhD¹, Phillip J. Quartana, PhD²;

¹University of Maine, Orono; ²Walter Reed Army Institute of Research

11. Family Liability for Anxious and Depressive Symptoms: Quantifying the Role of Family in the Symptoms of Anxiety Disorders in Childhood

Giovanni A. Salum, MD; Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul, Porto Alegre, Brazil

12. Genome-Wide Association Study of Anxiety-Spectrum Disorders

Takeshi Otowa, MD, PhD; Virginia Commonwealth University

13. The Relationship Between Anxiety Disorders and Physician-Diagnosed Cardiac Conditions: Results From a Nationally Representative Survey

D. Jolene Kinley, MA; University of Manitoba, Winnipeg

14. Anxiety Sensitivity, Behavioral Inhibition, and Cognitive Biases: Structural Equation Modeling of Direct and Indirect Pathways to Anxiety

Andres Viana, MS; Penn State University

15. Interpersonal Problems in Social Anxiety Disorder: Self and Other Comparisons

Elizabeth A. Gordon, MA, Richard G. Heimberg, PhD, Jennifer L. Montesi, MA, Robert L. Fauber, PhD; Temple University

16. Posttraumatic Stress Disorder Symptoms in School-aged Children 12 Months After a Road Traffic Accident: The Role of the Mothers' Variables

Eric Bui, MD, PhD; Massachusetts General Hospital

OBSESSIVE-COMPULSIVE DISORDER17. Symptom Dimensions in OCD and Relationship With Clinical Profile

Smoking is NOT permitted during any session, meeting, or function.

OVERVIEW

The conference aims to leverage its broad audience to synthesize cutting-edge knowledge, accelerate dissemination, and translate scientific evidence to practice by engaging clinicians.

The ADAA Annual Conference is novel and actively works to advance knowledge in unique ways. (1) fostering dissemination and collaboration among basic and behavioral researchers; (2) encouraging researchers and clinicians to discuss practical applications in real life settings; (3) accelerating translation of research to practice with hands-on training of empirically-tested treatments; (4) involving early career investigators, students and trainees in research and learning; and (5) providing opportunities for professionals to hear patient perspectives. The conference engages all of these audiences, building bridges and supporting these networks throughout the year.

STATEMENT OF NEED

Approximately 40 million American adults ages 18 and older, or about 18.1 percent of people in this age group in a given year, have an anxiety disorder which often presents with comorbidities and psychosomatic symptoms. Only about one third of these patients receive treatment. Further, implementation of evidence-based practices is critical to improving outcomes for patients with anxiety and related disorders.

At the conclusion of this activity, attendees should be better able to...

- Identify comorbid mental and physical disorders that may impact patient anxiety.
- Discuss the latest research in the diagnosis and treatment of anxiety disorders with colleagues.
- Critically evaluate the controversies in patient diagnosis and treatment.
- Compare and contrast evidence-based pharmaceutical and psychosocial options.
- Evaluate the novel therapies emerging as treatments for anxiety disorders.
- Discuss translational research with colleagues and how it informs clinical decisions
- Analyze the symptoms and the differences in evidence-based diagnosis and treatment available to patients at various stages of life.
- Differentiate diagnoses of anxiety disorders with respect to gender differences, age, and comorbidity.
- Evaluate the research on the links between medication and alternative therapy.
- Recognize warning signs of adverse reactions.

Predicted Outcomes

- Design strategies to incorporate awareness of comorbidity into the treatment of anxiety disorders.
- Analyze and select the best treatment option based on research and options available for patients suffering with more than one mental illness.
- Incorporate current evidence-based data and appropriate guidelines to the diagnosis and treatment of anxiety disorders.
- Establish practice protocols to determine whether a novel or traditional therapy would be most appropriate for my patient.

- Consider a patient’s stage in life as part of the diagnostic protocol.
- Consider possible adverse drug interactions with herbal and alternative therapies when counseling patients.
- Better recognize the warning signs if an adverse reaction is occurring.

CONTINUING EDUCATION

ADAA is pleased to offer CE and CME credits to registered professionals. Members do not pay an additional fee for credits, but they must fill out the form. The credits are available for an additional fee of $65 per discipline for nonmembers.

Pick up a continuing education form at Registration. To receive credits, you must complete the form and mark each session you attend. This will determine how many credits you are eligible to receive. Return the completed form to Registration by Sunday at 1:00p.m. You will receive a signed copy as your receipt.

A conference evaluation will be sent to you by email after the conference. You must complete and return it to ADAA to receive CE/CME credits. In accordance with new rules for continuing education and in an effort to go green, we will not have paper evaluations for individual sessions.

CE CREDITS

Psychologists | Psychologists can earn up to 32 CE credits for this activity. The Psychology Service of the VA Boston Healthcare System is approved by the American Psychological Association to sponsor continuing education for psychologists. The Psychology Service of the VA Boston Healthcare System maintains responsibility for this program and its content. Learning Objectives and CE credit hours for each educational offering will be available at the convention site.

Social Workers | This program is approved by the National Association of Social Workers (provider #886437837) for up to 32 continuing education contract hours.

Counselors | This program is approved by the National Board for Certified Counselors for up to 30 continuing education credits.

This conference has been approved as a Mandatory Continuing Education for Psychologists (MCEP) provider for the California Psychological Association Accrediting Agency. ADAA has been approved to serve as a provider of CE for licensed marriage, family, and child counselors (MFCC) and licensed clinical social workers (LCSW) in California.

The course meets the qualifications for continuing education for MFTs and LCSWs as required by the California Board of Behavioral Sciences.

CME CREDITS

Accreditation | This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the Essential Areas and Policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) through the joint sponsorship of Tulane University Health Sciences Center and Anxiety Disorders Association of America (ADAA). Tulane University Health Sciences Center is accredited by the ACCME to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Designation | Tulane University Health Sciences Center designates this live educational activity for a maximum of 27 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity. Tulane University Health Sciences Center and ADAA present this activity for educational purposes only and does not endorse any product, content of presentation, or exhibit. Participants are expected to utilize their own expertise and judgment while engaged in the practice of medicine. The content of the presentations is provided solely by presenters who have been selected because of their recognized expertise.

Faculty Disclosure | It is the policy of the Center for Continuing Education at Tulane University Health Sciences Center to plan and implement all of its educational activities in accordance with the ACCME’s Essential Areas and Policies to ensure balance, independence, objectivity, and scientific rigor. In accordance with the ACCME’s Standards for Commercial Support, everyone who is in a position to control the content of an educational activity certified for AMA PRA Category 1 Credit™ is required to disclose all financial relationships with any commercial interests within the past 12 months that creates a real or apparent conflict of interest. Individuals who do not disclose are disqualified from participating in a CME activity. Individuals with potential for influence or control of CME content include planners and planning committee members, authors, teachers, educational activity directors, educational partners, and others who participate, eg, facilitators and moderators. This disclosure pertains to relationships with pharmaceutical companies, biomedical device manufacturers, or other corporations whose products or services are related to the subject matter of the presentation topic. Any real or apparent conflicts of interest related to the content of the presentations must be resolved prior to the educational activity. Disclosure of off-label, experimental, or investigational use of drugs or devices must also be made known to the audience.
